

TEACHERS COLLEGE

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

Dr. Burton's Open Lecture

"Artistic and aesthetic development of children and adolescents in relation to museums and other cultural organizations."

Time: Friday, June 19th, 2009 7:00 pm - 8:30 pm

Place: Teachers College Japan (Suidobashi, Tokyo)

Lecturer: Dr. Judith Burton, the Director of Art Education Program at Teachers College, Columbia University, NY

Bio : Dr. Judith Burton came to the United States from Great Britain in 1974, she taught in the Newton Public Schools and at the Massachusetts College of Art. She completed her doctoral work at Harvard University while chairing the Art Education Program at Boston University. In 1990 she was invited to direct the Program in Art and Art Education at Columbia University Teachers College and more recently served as Chairperson of the newly created Department of the Arts and Humanities.

Dr. Burton's research focuses on the contribution of the arts to human growth and development; her many publications include a series of articles entitled "Developing Minds" which has become standard reading in art education programs. Dr. Burton was honored by The National Art Education Association with the prestigious Viktor Lowenfeld Award for her contribution to the profession of art education. She has also revised Lowenfeld's famous text Creative and Mental Growth which is widely read in art and psychology programs round the world.

Application: E-mail to office@tc-japan.edu indicating "Dr. Burton's open lecture," your name, occupation, e-mail address, contact address, and phone number.

Application deadline: Wednesday, June 17.

Cost: Free

※ Dr. Burton will also talk about a future art-education certificate program at Teachers College Japan.

※ This lecture will be held in English.

Teachers College Columbia University Japan
 Leaf Square Bldg. 4F, 2-21-2 Misaki-cho, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo
 E-mail: office@tc-japan.edu Phone: (03) 3221-9771
<http://www.tc-japan.edu>

